Welcome

Welcome to the Kentucky Commission on the Deaf and Hard of Hearing's "Resource Guide: Services for Older Adults." This manual has been developed to offer resources to enable older adults who are deaf or hard of hearing to live healthy, independent lives for as long as possible.

In fact, hearing loss affects:

- More than 48 million Americans with that number doubling by 2060;
- Nearly 700,000 Kentuckians; and
- 50% of adults 75 years old or older.

Hearing loss is also the third most common health issue in the United States, behind heart disease and arthritis. Whether you are born with a hearing loss or it is a gradual decrease, it is one of the most common conditions affecting older adults.

As a result, this manual is to be used as a guide to learn the resources available for senior citizens. This will allow you and your family to make well-informed decisions. KCDHH's goal is to assist you by making services and information available to you.

Please know that the information in this book is continually being updated, and you may need to refer to the websites to confirm the contact information. If you need advocacy for accommodations from these programs, please contact KCDHH.

Today's seniors have new resources emerging daily to make life easier as they enjoy the freedom of living independently. Again, please reach out to us if you need assistance or have questions regarding this manual.

We look forward to assisting you!

Sincerely,

Virginia L. Moore

Aging in Place

Most older adults prefer to stay in their own homes as long as they can. These supports may help make it possible to stay longer. Go to www.aarp.org and select their “Care at Home” tab for articles and links to resources.

Meals on Wheels

Individuals aged 60+ may receive one noon-time meal per day Monday-Friday in their home or at congregate centers like Senior Centers. To apply, contact your county’s Area Agency on Aging and Independent Living (see p. 2 and 3).

More information about the program can be found here:

<https://kentuckyfoodstamps.org/meals-on-wheels/>

Housing Assistance & Nursing Home Transition

The Housing Coordinator at Center for Accessible Living (CAL) maintains a listing of accessible and affordable rental units. Nursing home residents who would like to move into a home of their choice in the community may request assistance to help guide them through making the decision to move into the community. You can contact CAL in Louisville at 502.589.6620 (V) or 502.413.2689 (VP), in Bowling Green at 270.599.0910, in Murray at 270.753.7676, and in northern Kentucky at 859.940.3843 for more information.

Telephone Reassurance Programs and Friendly Visitors

Local agencies like ElderServe in Louisville offer Friendly Visitor programs where individuals check on and visit with older adults on a regular basis. Also check your local area for phone (VP/Text) reassurance programs such as “telecare” where volunteers call in regularly to talk with seniors. Some programs may have different names but do the same thing.

Hospice or Palliative Care

When people have chronic illnesses or are near the end of life, hospice and palliative care can help them live and die with dignity. Services may be provided in an individual’s home, at a hospital, or in a free-standing facility. Care for the family is also included. To find options near you, go to <http://www.kahpc.org/>

Help with Nursing Homes and Assisted Living

If you or a loved one are a resident at a long-term care facility in Kentucky and have questions or need help, please email or call The Kentucky State Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program at :

The Nursing Home Ombudsman Agency of the Bluegrass

800.372.2991

859.277.9215

nhoa@ombuddy.org

An Ombudsman is an advocate who can help:

Identify, investigate, and resolve complaints made by or on behalf of residents;

Provide information about long-term care services;

Represent the interest of residents before governmental agencies and seek administrative, legal and other remedies to protect residents;

Promote the development of citizen organizations to participate in the program;

Provide technical support to develop resident and family councils that protect the well-being and rights of residents; and

Advocate for changes to improve residents' quality of life and care.

Help with Nursing Homes

If you, or a loved one, need a Skilled Nursing Facility (SNF) or Assisted Living, finding the right place can be a challenge. Factors to consider include location, cost, insurances accepted, and the willingness of the facility to meet communication needs. Visit locations you are considering, and bring a list of questions.

More tips for finding the right facility to meet your needs can be found here: <http://www.nursinghomeabuseguide.org/resources/finding-the-right-nursing-home/>

Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) Nursing Home Compare

Use this site to compare licensed skilled nursing facilities in the U.S.

To learn more: <https://www.medicare.gov/nursinghomecompare/search.html>

The image shows a screenshot of the Medicare.gov Nursing Home Compare website. At the top, it says "Medicare.gov | Nursing Home Compare" and "The Official U.S. Government Site for Medicare". Below this are five navigation buttons: "Nursing Home Compare Home", "About Nursing Home Compare", "About the data", "Resources", and "Help". The main heading is "Find a nursing home". Below this is a paragraph explaining that the site provides detailed information about Medicare and Medicaid-certified nursing homes. A search instruction says "Search below to find nursing homes based on a location and compare the quality of care they provide and their staffing." The search form includes a note that fields with an asterisk are required, a "Location" field with an example "45802 or Lima, OH or Ohio", a "Nursing home name (optional)" field, and a "Search" button. To the right of the form is a photograph of an elderly woman smiling while a doctor in a white coat and stethoscope looks at her.

Knowing the Rights of Nursing Home Residents

Every resident of a nursing home has rights and protections. Ask the facility you are considering for a list of those rights. The document below has a list of those rights:

A Home for Henry: Fair Housing Rights of Deaf and Hard-of-Hearing People in Nursing Homes and Assisted Living Facilities was created by the Fair Housing Justice Center (FHJC) to increase public awareness about the fair housing rights of deaf and hard of hearing populations in nursing homes and assisted living facilities.

A Home for Henry tells the story of Henry, an elderly Deaf man who recently started residing in a nursing home. In the 12-minute video, Henry relates his personal experience searching for a nursing home and his interaction with a nursing home administrator who developed an effective communication plan that would meet his needs.

A Home for Henry encourages elderly people who are deaf or hard of hearing to exercise their fair housing rights. It also provides administrators and staff of nursing homes and assisted living facilities with valuable information about types of auxiliary aids that can ensure effective communication with deaf residents. A Home for Henry was directed and produced by the Deaf Professional Artists Network \(DPAN\), featuring a nearly all deaf cast and crew and was created in consultation with the National Association of the Deaf \(NAD\).

Audiology Services

People may go to different professionals for help with hearing loss. Ear Nose and Throat (ENT) Specialists, Hearing Aid Dealers, Audiologists, and emerging Over the Counter hearing devices offer several different options, which can be confusing. You may want to start with your insurance company to find a covered audiologist for a full evaluation. The Hearing Loss Association of America (HLAA) offers many good resources to help make informed decisions on their website: www.hearingloss.org.

If you are searching for an audiologist in your area, the websites below can help you do an internet search to find a provider that meets your needs.
